Your sites at a glance

Every development rolls up to one colour. Red: overdue, or an emergency. Amber: due within five days. Green: on track. The line under the name is the single most urgent thing across all its plots.

The next thing to do, on every plot

Plots sort with the most urgent at the top. Each card leads with one line — what to do next and when. You never calculate a date yourself.

One line tells you what is due

The Code

Reserved, Exchanged, Notice, Completed. Enter each date the day it happens and the app starts every Code timescale for you: cooling-off, exchange-by, inspection, after-sales.

Snags, defects, complaints and emergencies

The moment a customer reports anything, tap the matching button. The Code timescale starts automatically — 30 days to put right a snag or defect, the 5/10/30/56-day complaints timetable, urgent flagging for emergencies. A report from the customer's app arrives by email: tap the link in it and the sheet opens here, filled in.

Choices, changes, delays, site visits and emails

One line, optional photo, ten seconds. Choices and paid extras, changes (for a major one: speak to the customer first, send the drafted notice, and the 14-day window runs from receipt), delays, build updates, trade visits — attended, no access, or turned away — and emails with the customer, all from this one button.

Major change Delay Build update

Site visit Email

An email to or from the customer, pasted verbatim with the date it was actually sent. It joins the timeline and the export, so the record carries the correspondence.

The email — paste the text

Copy the email in your mail app, then paste it here

Pick Email under the same button and paste an email to or from the customer — with the date it was actually sent — and it joins the timeline and the export, so the evidence trail is complete. On Android you can share an email straight from your mail app into the right plot.

The document checklist

DOCUMENT CHECKLIST 9/20

At reservation why? 2/2

- ✓ Reservation Agreement signed, copy given to customer
Signed by both of you, and they keep a copy. It must include the fee, the 14-day cooling-off period, cancellation and refund terms, warranty provider details, and the exchange-by date (at least six weeks after reservation).
✓ 24 Aug 2026 Attach file Add note
- ✓ Affordability Schedule provided
The likely costs over the five years after the sale — ground rent, management and event fees, service charges (including rises and sinking funds), maintenance of built-in equipment, and upkeep of the property.
✓ 24 Aug 2026 Attach file Add note

Pre-contract & exchange why? 7/7

- ✓ Pre-contract information sent to customer's legal adviser
Warranty cover summary and provider contact, tenure, planning consent reference, list of included contents, confirmation the spec is as advertised (including the structural frame), build standards, any unusual restrictions, services that transfer later, management services, and the indicative costs schedule.

Plots Guide The Code

Grouped by stage — At reservation, Pre-contract & exchange, Completion & handover — and it only ever asks for what is due at the stage you have reached. Tick items off as you hand them over, attaching files as you go.

Give the customer their own app

Creates a private link — the plot's details travel inside the link itself, so nothing is uploaded anywhere. The customer sees their journey, their Code rights, documents received, and can report problems through a guided form that reaches you by email.

Search the Code

Type a question in your own words — "how long to fix a snag", "deposit refund" — and the relevant clause appears with its exact reference. Quick answers and a part-by-part browse sit underneath.
